Convert pdf to microsoft word using onenote apps

CC0/langll/Pixabay Whether you're traveling for business, pleasure or something in between, getting around a new city can be difficult and frightening if you don't have the right information. In today's digital world, you have all of the information right there at your fingertips, especially if you've downloaded one of these 10 innovative apps that will help you get around. Best of all, each app is available for both iOS and Android devices.iExitDo you love taking road trips (or have to take them for work)? If so, you can't go another day without iExit. When you're driving along a major interstate and you're looking for a gas station, certain type of restaurant, welcome center, bathroom, hotel, hospital, drug store or any other place where you may need to make stop, you can simply pull up iExit and find it. The app breaks down each exit on most major interstates in the United States. CC0/KatieBethToday/Pixabay Google Maps Google Maps has been around for years, but it still reigns supreme when it comes to getting around town. Find out what kind of public transportation is offered in the area, which points of interest are nearby and even how crowded those restaurants and shops you want to visit are at that exact moment. Get directions to your next destination, and find out how long it will take to get there via car, foot, public transit or bike. CC0/Publiccco/Pixabay Mobile Passport Anyone traveling internationally will want to download the Mobile Passport app. Use your phone to scan your passport information, and you can skip the customs lines. While it's authorized for use by US Customs, keep in mind that it's only accepted at about 24 airports, and you must be an American or Canadian citizen, though those numbers are sure to grow. CC0/Cytis/Pixabay FLIONo one really looks forward to a delayed flight, but if you find yourself enjoying a layover, FLIO can help you navigate the airport for everything you need to stay comfortable. Find out how to use the Wi-Fi, where the lounges are, what there is to eat in the area and how to get from place to place among other important information. CC0/Katyveldhorst/Pixabay GasBuddy If you prefer driving over flying to your destination, GasBuddy can be your best friend. It's available in the United States, Australia and Canada, and you can use the app to search for gas stations near your location and compare prices to find the cheapest gas in the vicinity. CC0/Skitterphoto/Pixabay HotelTonight For some people, there's nothing worse than being stuck in an unfamiliar city and having to book a hotel at the last minute. For others, that's part of the thrill of a road trip. No matter which side of the issue you fall on, HotelTonight helps you find same-day hotel reservations in the city where you're staying, and those bookings usually come with some decent discounts. CC0/Bottlein/Pixabay UberYou're probably already familiar with Uber, but if you aren't, the app is a must for your next travel date. The ridesharing service is available in over 84 countries and hundreds of cities around the globe. When you have no idea where you're going, how to get there or you simply don't want to navigate traffic in a new place, it's a trusty standby you can rely on practically anywhere. It also comes in handy when you've had a bit too much to drink or those new shoes rubbed blisters on your feet and you can't get back to your hotel. CC0/Free-Photos/Pixabay Google Trips Google Trips is a newer app, but it works seamlessly with apps like Google Maps, Gmail and Calendar to put together an itinerary for your next trip. It searches for information like flight details, hotel reservations and car rental receipts and provides you with a list of things you may like to do in the city you're traveling to. You can also manually select a destination city, and let the app put together a list of things that might interest you there. SidekixIf you find yourself with a little downtime in a particular city, Sidekix can guide you towards something fun and exciting to do. From Amsterdam to Warsaw, with dozens in between, you can get a glimpse at some "best of" guides cities around the world. Looking for the best seafood restaurant in Boston or the best museum in Havana? You'll find it on Sidekix. CC0/StockSnap/Pixabay YelpNo matter where you go, you have to eat, and finding the best place in town isn't always easy. Yelp is an international tool filled with reviews of local restaurants in cities across the globe. It's more useful in some countries than others, and within the United States, you'll find more reviews for restaurants in bigger cities than you will the country, but you'll get honest feedback on whether or not locals and other travelers recommend a place to eat. CC0/igorovsyannykov/Pixabay MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET OneNote is a useful program for conducting research, taking notes, and organizing data. Given the fact that not everyone has Microsoft OneNote, you might have to convert a OneNote Notebook to another file type before sharing it with a colleague. OneNote Notebooks can be turned into several file formats, including Microsoft Word and PDF. This post will guide you to convert a OneNote Workbook into a compatible Microsoft Word or PDF document. There are two different applications for OneNote. One is available through Microsoft Store and the other can be downloaded directly. While these apps will be finally merged, here is how you can export. Note that if you'd like to convert an entire document, you only get the option to export it into a PDF file. OneNote does not support converting an entire document into Word. Here's what you need to do to convert or export a OneNote file to a Word or PDF document on your PC. Start by bringing up OneNote and pulling up the file to be converted. Next, head over to the File tab, located at the top-left corner of your OneNote screen. Here, select Export from the list of options in the left navigation pane. Now, you get three new options to go with under Export Current. You can choose between exporting the current Page, Section, or Notebook. Choose one based on your preferences and select PDF or Word Document from the Select Format section on the right. Finally, navigate and select the location to store the file and click on Save. Convert OneNote Documents from the OneNote Microsoft Store App If you're on the OneNote for Windows or Microsoft Store application, here's how you can convert OneNote files to a different file format. Launch the OneNote app, and head over to the file to be exported. Next, click on the three-dotted icon present in the top right corner of the screen to bring up a new dropdown. Here, choose Print from the list of options. Alternatively, you can also press CTRL + P on the keyboard. Now, choose Microsoft Print to PDF as the printer, select the pages you'd like to print from the Pages section, choose your orientation and finally click on Print to complete the process. Do Changes Made to the OneNote Document Automatically Reflect in the Exported File? Keep in mind that any modifications you make to a notebook will not be reflected in the PDF. Instead, you will be required to go through the entire process again to generate a new PDF. Is It Possible to Convert a Single Page or an Entire Notebook? Yes, with OneNote, users can now choose between converting either a single page, a section, or the entire workbook. The option is available under the Export tab in OneNote. Can You Export from OneNote for Windows? Yes, it is possible to export from OneNote for Windows 10. However, you can either print the document on paper or export it to a PDF format. You miss out on options to export to Word and many other formats. Many people use Microsoft OneNote to take notes for class or record minutes for workplace meetings because of its capabilities, including collaborative work, automatic cloud synchronization, and write-anywhere note-taking. That said, how often do you feel the need to export OneNote files to PDF or Word documents? Do let us know by dropping a comment down below. I needed to find a way to export a number of pages from a OneNote notebook into Word documents. The technique I used and will step through in this post was to: Create a new OneNote section (temporarily in needed) to arrange the pages I wanted to export (one section per Word document I wanted) Export the entire section into a Word (.docx) file Automatically fix up image sizing issues with a custom macro Right-click on the section tab and select Export... Change the export file type to be a Word document (.docx) This will export all pages from the OneNote section and append them all into one Word document. This is a pretty good result except for the pictures. In many cases the pictures are wider than the page width and look half missing. The solution to quickly and easily address the image width problem in bulk is to create a Word macro to resize all images in a Word document that are too wide to fit on the page. Here's how we create the Word macro (this is in Outlook 2016) The Developer toolbar needed for creating macros isn't visible by default so to switch it on to File | Options | Customize Ribbon and ensure Developer is checked You should now get the Developer toolbar appearing Select Macros, give the new macro a name and select a scope for where to save the macro (this determines where it will be available later on). You will now be dropped into the VB Macro Editor experience which looks nothing like Word! Don't worry you just need to paste the following code in as shown Here's the macro code to copy/paste Dim i As Long With ActiveDocument For i = 1 To .InlineShapes.Count If PointsToCentimeters(.InlineShapes(i).Width) > 15 Then With .InlineShapes(i) .LockAspectRatio = msoTrue .Width = CentimetersToPoints(15) End With End If Next i End With The result should look like this, you can then save and close the macro editor window Now back in Word, with your document open (with the oversized images) select Developer | Macros, select your new macro and click Run Once the macro has completed all the images that were over 15cm in width will have been resized to fit on the page. This assumes the pages are in portrait orientation and that the maximum width of an image should be 15cm
